New Teacher Institute

Beginning teachers have many strengths that enhance the profession and the learning opportunities for students. This workshop will inspire new teachers to recognize those strengths and use them to inspire students, colleagues and parents.

During this two-day symposium teachers will:

- Discover the strengths they bring to the profession
- Explore management practices that support their students
- Discover resources and tools that enhance learning opportunities for students
- Explore communication processes that inspire life-long learners
- Discover how to create an environment where a growth-mindset can thrive

Celebrate the Art of Teaching

Several presentations will be offered over the two days. Each session will have a learning focus that's about progress, not perfection. By design we intend to inspire you with new ideas, and honor your new role of shining brightly, encouraging, and believing in the extraordinary potential of your students.
