

pblCORE Trainer of Trainers Workshop Series 2015-16 for County Office of Education or District

(Delivered at Tulare County Office of Education)

The Tulare County Office of Education model for Project Based Learning, pblCORE, was developed by our team of consultants, including Joy Soares, PBL Consultant, Nationally Certified BIE Trainer, Linked Learning Certified Coach; Jen Francone, ELA/ELD & PBL Consultant, Doctoral Candidate; and Michelle French, STEM & PBL Consultant, K-12 Alliance Trainer. Our core purpose in developing this work was based on our knowledge that Project Based Learning can initially be trained, yet must be coached to implementation and sustainability within school systems.

The TCOE model, pblCORE, is a structured process designed to support educators in developing and delivering effective instruction focused on building transferrable skills that prepare students for college, career, and life. The pblCORE process is an integrated approach for designing, implementing, assessing, and managing Project Based Learning. The Ten pblCORE Characteristics, California's Standards and Instructional Shifts, 21st Century Skills, Depth of Knowledge, The Three Rs (Rigor, Relevance, and Relationships), and conceptual curriculum mapping are embedded in pblCORE.

Our pblCORE Trainer of Trainers (T.o.T.) Workshop Series is your County Office's or District's opportunity to disseminate and sustain successful practices at your organization in a timely and cost-effective manner.
